Association for Psychological Type

FOUNDED 1984

Calendar of Programs 2018–2019

BAAPT is a voluntary, non-profit organization dedicated to the constructive use of differences. Our interests include the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI®), Keirsey's work on Temperament, and a variety of other typology applications.

BAAPT PROGRAMS – 2018-2019

We begin at 9:00 AM with refreshments and facilitated networking. Announcements at 9:15am, and the program begins at 9:30am. Guest Fee is $35. First time guests FREE.

September 8 • Judah Pollack (INTP) “Type and Story”

We will learn how Type exposes the things we dream for ourselves and how film can reflect these type-oriented dreams.

◆

October 13 • Saori Choulos (INFJ) “The Sensing Function”

In this interactive session, we'll explore the introverted dominant or auxiliary function and create an art piece to display our inside out.

◆

November 10 • Susan Nash (ENFJ)

MORNING: “Building Personal Resilience Using Type”

You'll be able to better comprehend each Type's core needs, drive and thought processes; what key factors cause stress and how to reduce the stress and raise self-esteem.

AFTERNOON: “Introducing Interaction Style: Tips and Tricks”

Learn about the “Drive” and observable behaviors for each “Interaction Style,” and how to present it in an interactive, dynamic way. See how to guide people through a self-assessment process.

◆

December 8 • Wendy Horikoshi (ISTJ) “Type and Our Working Relationships”

Come to a working session to explore and learn more about communication, problem-solving or creativity in your work, living or social relationships.

JANUARY 12, 2019 – BAAPT SPECIAL FUNDRAISER

ALL DAY FUNDRAISER BAAPT SPECIAL EVENT

A FULL-DAY SESSION from 9:15 AM–3:30 PM • MEMBERS $35 • VISITORS $60

Markey Read (ENFJ)

“Dynamic Leadership Styles: Leading Teams and Projects from your Superpowers”

Explore the 8-function approach and gain a useful perspective in personal relationships from Markey's book, Leadership Styles: Making Informed Decisions With Your Cast of Characters. Discover a useful perspective on the relationship between perceiving functions and the perception of time.

February 9 • Dov Pollack (ENFP)

“Relationship Dynamics: Seeing Our Partners For Who They Are, Instead of Who We Are”

Dov will facilitate a panel of two couples to discover how you show up in a relationship, explore your defaults under stress, and learn the #1 thing that dooms a relationship – and how to avoid it.

March 9 • Adam Frey (ISFJ)

“How We Live the ‘Eight Functions’ of Our Psychological Type”

We use our dominant type to meet challenges and demonstrate our competence but type can be expressed in very different ways. Explore the different facets of your personality and gain insight into what you meet every day in people around you.

April 13 • Kathleen Sexton (ENTJ)

“MBTI and Genograms: A New Type Lens for Looking at Your Family”

We will create a type genogram to examine type patterns throughout the family tree and along the way analyze the impact of family types on communication patterns, managing conflict, dealing with change and stress.

May 11 • Refina McMenemy (INFP)

“Video Games, Identity, and Type”

Video interviews with gamers will show how their MBTI type and function attitudes intersects with how they play games. Also learn about the 'gamer types' and how to possibly use games as another means of communication with others.
